FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LLOYD W. STEWART NAMED CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER OF STREAMZ INC.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 9, 2015—Lloyd W. Stewart has been named Chief Financial Officer of Streamz Inc., effective immediately, it was announced today by Douglas Kihm, Chief Executive Officer.

“As Streamz Inc. transitions in 2015 from its initial product development to the production and marketing of the world’s smartest headphone technology we are fortunate to have Lloyd available to serve as our CFO. He brings a broad background in investment banking, corporate finance, venture capital, and start-up technology companies to his role as CFO. His insights and experience, much of it gained as an investment banker in New York and San Francisco and as a technology company founder and officer in the San Francisco Bay area will help him have even more of an impact on creating value for Streamz Inc. shareholders,” Mr. Kihm said.

“I am truly honored to serve as CFO of Streamz and work with its founder, Douglas Kihm, and the rest of the amazing team at Streamz. They have put together a technology and projected stream of disruptive products that will change the way we listen to music, audio books, and other aural inputs as a part of the “streaming” revolution. I suppose because of all my years in California I like to think of business markets like a surfer looks at an ocean wave. There is a large and rapidly growing wave in the smart, wearable, streaming market. Streamz is at the leading edge of the technology to successfully ride this wave. I am excited to be a part of it,” said Mr. Stewart.

Prior to joining Streamz Inc. Mr. Stewart was an investment banker for several years with Smith Barney in New York and San Francisco, which later merged with Morgan Stanley. He was the founder and Chairman of Stewart-Reiss Laboratories, a medical electronic company (I.V. infusion pumps) in Santa Clara, California, which was later sold to Sterling Medical, a public company. He served as Chief Financial Officer for Thoratec Corporation (THOR: Nasdaq), Pleasanton, California, a manufacturer of electronic heart devices, which he helped take public. (Sales:2014: $477 million, Market Cap: $2.2 billion.) He has served on the board of various technology companies, was a guest lecturer on venture capital at UC Berkely and has served on various forums as a guest speaker on venture capital and new enterprise development.

Mr. Stewart completed his Bachelor’s degree at Stanford University, Palo Alto, CA and his MBA in Finance at the Harvard Business School, Boston, MA.
